

CASS Communities of Practice

How to Maximize Your Time Together Tonight

Introduce yourselves by sharing your name, title, and school authority. Share why this purpose statement resonates with you.

Revisit your purpose statement and revise, if necessary. Or craft a new purpose statement.

Ensure your CoP's purpose statement and primary contact are listed in CASS Pro-spective. If you revised the purpose statement, reply directly to your original post.

Create norms for your CoP group by using the guiding questions provided in the planning tool available on your table.

Begin drafting your CoP's collaborative plan and use your time this evening to initiate discussions or start working collaboratively on the plan.

Exchange contact information to build your professional network and stay connected. Decide if your group will meet before the March Annual Conference, ideally at least once.

Watch CASS Connects for updates and information about Communities of Practice.

Further resources about Communities of Practice can be found on the CASS CoP website.
